Part B. CV SUMMARY (max. 3500 characters, including spaces)

Edelmiro López Iglesias holds a PhD in Economics (1994) from the University of Santiago de Compostela (USC), with Special Award for the best PhD thesis. Since 1985 he has developed his activity in the Department of Applied Economics of the USC, where since 1995 he is Associate Professor. From 1999 to 2005 he was Director of the Galician Studies and Development Institute (IDEGA). Between August 2005 and April 2009 he held the position of Director-General of Rural Development in the Regional Government of Galicia, assuming, among other tasks, planning and implementation of the Rural Development Programme of Galicia 2007-2013, as director of the Managing Authority and the Paying Agency. Since March 2017 he is Head of the Department of Applied Economics at USC.

His research focus on agricultural economics and agricultural policies, with special attention to the dynamics of farm structures and land mobility, rural development and regional economics. He has been involved in 30 competitive research projects (international, national and regional). This research path has been complemented by transfer activities, embodied in more than 50 contracts with private entities and public institutions (including European Commission, Inter-American Development Bank, Inter-American Institute for Cooperation on Agriculture (IICA), Assembly of the Republic of Portugal and the Spanish Ministry of Agriculture).

Director of 9 PhD theses, 6 of them defended in the last 7 years. He has published 28 peer reviewed papers in international and national journals (Ecological Economics, Journal of Cleaner Production, Land Use Policy, European Planning Studies, Papers in Regional Science, International Food and Agribusiness Management Review,...). And 35 books and 40 book chapters in Spanish and international publishers (Emerald, Edward Elgar). In 1995 he received the XXIII National Award to the best Agricultural, Fisheries and Food Publication, granted by the Spanish Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food. He has 2 six-year periods (sexenios) of research recognized (granted in 2007 and 2019) and 1 six-year period of transfer (granted in 2020). And has obtained 4.75 (out of 5) non-consolidable sections (tramos) in the complements of teaching and research curricular excellence of the Regional Government of Galicia (last period evaluated: 2015-2019).

He is currently head of the ECOAGRASOC research group, recognized as a Competitive Reference Group in the Galician University System. His medium-term scientific interests focus on the analysis of agricultural and rural development policies, the food chain, mobility and abandonment of land and forest fires (in 2017-2018 he was member of the Independent Technical Commission appointed by the Assembly of the Republic of Portugal for the study of the forest fires in that country).
